REGULATING OUR SECURITY OFFICERS

All sites are supplied with two way communication system and an active track where applicable, all guards to arrive fifteen minutes before shift starts and this is monitored by our control room, which is monitored 24 hours a day.

NIGHT SHIFT

To prevent the most common problem many clients or guarding companies face at night is the sleeping by staff members and/or other possible problems.

We have a tried and tested systems in place that help detour these problems. Every site must report to the control room with a specific code, along with their OB serial number at different times throughout the evening, in order to avoid repetition. These timing intervals are determined by the site managers and are checked on a different logging sheet which is then checked against the OB records daily.

OUR INTERNAL SAFETY PROTOCOLS

ALARM/PANIC BUTTON

Any guards who fail to report via two way communication system, which is directly monitored in our control room on time, is visited immediately to determine the cause, as well as possible action for his failure not to report on duty.

Any burglar alarm/panic alarm being set off is immediately investigated via our security vehicle, two way communication systems and the directors are informed immediately of any alarm being triggered. This way we can write an incident report for the client which then will be emailed to the respective client the following day.

Every morning a meeting is held between one or both directors and the control room staff to discuss the previous night shift and to discuss the day's events and postings

TRIDENT Protection Services prides it self on the fact that we guarantee immediate senior management response to any incidents that may occur 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. This is an important aspect of our commitment to each client and to uphold this commitment as best we can.
